

HISTORICAL DOCUMENTS ADVISORY & ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF RECEIPT FOR DOCUMENTS

As the Buyer you may receive documents related to the property from a prior listing or sale – “Historical Documents.” Broker/Agent recommend you read and evaluate the Historical Documents in full, and compare them to the documents and disclosures received in this transaction, and also the reports and information obtained during your investigation of the property. The Historical Documents may provide context to your investigation of the current condition of the property. The Historical Documents may reveal other material issues; for example, a history of negative interactions with a neighbor, or opposition to an application for a zoning variance, which may be equally valuable to your due diligence investigation.

Past defects along with the associated bids and estimates may shed light on the current condition of the property as well as the broader determination of the value and desirability of the property. It is therefore recommended you share the Historical Documents with your inspectors and consultants before removing your contingencies, including but not limited to your Investigation Property Contingency and Review Seller Documents Contingency.

BROKER / SELLER DISCLOSURE:

- ☐ If checked, Historical Documents were generated as part of a prior transaction.
- ☐ If checked, Historical Documents are attached.

The prior transaction closed escrow on _____ (date); OR if checked ☐ did not close escrow and the Historical Documents date to approximately _____ (date).

Broker/Agent represented ☐ Seller ☐ Buyer in the previous transaction from which the Historical Documents were generated.

The Historical Documents do not necessarily reflect the current condition of the property or the condition of the neighboring properties, or the neighborhood. Likewise, the Historical Documents do not necessarily reflect or portend the present or future use, condition, value and/or desirability of the Property. Historical Documents should not be considered to be the present representations by or on behalf of the Seller or the Broker/Agents.

Historical Documents are not a substitute for Buyer’s investigation of the property condition, and Buyer's review of current disclosures and/or current inspection reports. Broker / Agents have not and will not verify the information contained in the Historical Documents.

Buyer acknowledges receipt of this advisory and any/all of the Historical Documents attached.
